1. The drawings remain objected to under 37CFR 1.83(a) with regard to the method steps claimed in claims 55-66.

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

2. Claims 1-3, 10-12, 15, 16, 19, 22, 25 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sachs in the manner set forth in paragraph 3 of Paper No.5 and further in view either Anderson et al or Deards et al.

Applicants have not argues the primary references as applied to the claims. Applicant's argument is directed to the claim for "at least one stop" on the zone of weakness for protecting the zone from inadvertently parting. To the extent that applicant claims any particular "stop" construction, the problem of unintentional or inadvertent tears is well – known in packaging. Anderson et al teach a configuration with resists tear propagation or unintentional tearing on a line of perforations as at 36. Note that this results in at least one stop on the zone of weakness which inherently prevents inadvertent tearing or parting. Deards et al teach another stress relief construction at 13 which protects the film against tearing and therefor functions as a "stop". To have provided the a zone of weakness of Sachs with such a stop to prevent inadvertent separation would have been obvious in view of the teaching of either Anderson et al or Deards et al.

3. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lim in the manner set forth in paragraph 4 of Paper No. 5, in view of either Anderson et al or Deards et al.

Art Unit: 3727

To have merely provided the zone of weakness of Lim with a stop to prevent inadvertent separation would have been obvious in view of either Anderson et al or Deards et al.

4. Claims 4, 6, 7, 31, 34, 45, 48, 50 and 52 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sachs in view of either Lim or LaRosa in the manner set forth in paragraph 5 of Paper No. 5 and further in view of either Anderson et al or Deards et al.

To have merely formed the zones of weakness on both the front and back sides of the cover for ease of removal would have been obvious in view of either Lim or La Rosa, teaching such orientation. To have provided a stop in the zone of weakness to prevent inadvertent separation would have been obvious in view of either Anderson et al or Deards et al.

5. Claims 8, 9, 13, 14, 18, 21, 24, 27, 30, 33, 36, 39, 42, 44, 47, 49, 53 and 54 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the references as applied to claims 1-7 above, and further in view of Gilchrist, Jr in the manner set forth in paragraph 6 of Paper No. 5.

6. Claims 37 and 40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sachs in view of Lim in the manner set forth in paragraph 7 of Paper No. 5 and further in view of either Anderson et al or Deards et al.

To have provided a stop in the zone of weakness to prevent inadvertent separation would have been obvious in view of the teaching by either Anderson et al or Deards et al.

Art Unit: 3727

7. Claims 12, 20, 26, 32, 38, and 43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the references as applied to claims 1-7 above, and further in view of Gluckenberger in the manner set forth in paragraph 9 of Paper no. 5.

8. Claims 55 and 59 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the references as applied to claims 1-7 and 53 above, and further in view of Smyth, of record

To have simply made the cover from a tubular extrusion would have been obvious in view of Smyth, recognizing such well-known method.

9. Claim 63 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the references as applied to claim 54 above, and further in view of Venturini, of record.

To have further directed the diagonal zones as a pattern which extends along the length of the cover would have been obvious in view of the alternate teaching by Venturini in Figure 7.

10. Claims 56, 58, 60, 62, 64 and 66 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over references as applied to claims 55, 59 and 63* above, and further in view of Chester for the reasons set forth in paragraph 12 of Paper no. 5.

11. Claims 57, 61 and 65 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the references as applied to claims 55, 59 and 63 above, and further in view of Gluckenberger for the reasons set forth in paragraph 13 of Paper No. 5.

12. Claim 67 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schmidt et al, of record, in view of either Anderson et al or Deards et al.

Art Unit: 3727

To have provided a stop on the zone of weakness of Schmidt et al in order to prevent inadvertent separation would have been obvious in view of either Anderson et al or Deards et al.

13. Applicant's arguments, see the remarks, filed 9/24/2003, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 1-7, 52-56, 59, 63 and 67 under Marbler have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of either Anderson et al or Deards et al.

To the extent that applicant claims any particular "stop" structure, both Anderson et al and Deards et al are considered to teach constructions which prevent or stop inadvertent tearing as noted above. Therefore claims 1-16, 18-22, 24-28, 30-34, 36-40, 42-45, 47-50 and 52-67 have been rejected while claims 17, 23, 29, 35, 41, 46 and 51 have been cancelled.
